

The no-call list has created a safe haven for us from all those telemarketing calls we used to be bombarded with. Before the no-call list went into effect we were reluctant to pick up the phone when we were home. Now we know for sure that the call coming is a private call and not some telemarketer trying to harass us.